Target version:	improve tomcat security
Infrastructure:	Production

Description

tomcat answers to the 8080 port without restrictions.
It should be better to disable the http port altogether, I see that the ajp connector is used to talk with the apache web server. The ajp port is also open to the world, it should be limited to localhost only.
Last, some unused services are active: rpcbind, rpc.statd. They should be disabled.
