Target version:	UnSprintable
Infrastructure:	Production
Description We have all ready to proceed with the fix caused by the HL bug about items path. @valentina.marioli@isti.cnr.it provided me with jar containing the patch to put in production. @costantino.perciante@isti.cnr.it finished the tests in dev environment with success https://support.d4science.org/issues/3234 The only problem I see is the amount of time required to apply this fix, as of in dev environment we had 9K notifications (circa) while in Production we have 500K notifications (circa). In dev it took 10 minutes.

The HL Patch provided by Valentina has been deployed on the 4 production gateways with success. Unfortunately we could not fix the previous notifications as we still try to understand how to update 500K notifications in a reasonable amount of time. We launched a test 30 minutes ago and it didn't return yet.

We found the way to update in 30 minutes, however we just found out we have no backup for the cluster, cannot proceed until we have it (#3355)

@costantino.perciante@isti.cnr.it successfully executed the script for editing and setting the correct items path on Production Notifications. By Checking my notifications it seems the script did the job fine.
