Description

In the new portal, I can only accept 'All requests', not individual requests.

Column 'All' means???

Maybe change column All to Select, and then buttons Accept selected / Reject selected?

See screenshot for current options.

you should select the user you want to accept first then the accept button will appear

The user admin looks much better than the previous version, but I still have a few comments.

Users' request
I clicked on the record, but the 'All' field did not react as it did in the Users management.
Select all did the job, but I can not recall seeing the 'All'field checked. (will check next time)

Some other suggestions:
Users' request = Join VRE requests
Grant/deny access to VRE -- Add the name of the VRE

In Users management:
If the 'Accept selected'is dynamic, can also the record browser at the bottom be dynamic? e.g. showing only when there are more records than can be displayed in the panel? Showing 1 of 1 record looks odd.
The double click pops out the user details, we might as well open the edit panel immediately?
If a text is too long for the field, it pops up a balloon. This now 'blocks' access to the 'All field'. Maybe position to the right?
The selection of colors is a bit unfortunate, with the lighter being the active, where users I believe expect that the active color has more emphasis.

In the Edit user pane;
mass edit selected users = Edit selected user(s)
Dates now are great, but can we also set an end date (in the future only, off course)

- Tracker changed from Support to Task

@anton.ellenbroek@fao.org thanks for the suggestions. I am going to change the tracker since the support request has been solved I think.
@p.koltsida@di.uoa.gr could you say if the improvements can be release for the release 4.1?

Thank you for the feedback. We will check all suggestions and try to make them available in 4.1
@pasquale.pagano@isti.cnr.it when is the 4.1 release planned?

As Massimiliano stated, you can accept the users you want but first you need to select them. Accept all is an easy way to accept everyone and avoid multiple clicks.
In addition single click appears the user details. I'm not into the idea of opening the edit panel by double clicking, I still prefer the selection option. It is an action that makes changes and is better that way. In addition it will be confused for the end users to have a similar way to "view all details" and to "edit roles and groups"

Release 4.1 will be opened and closed in September.

Another comment; the pop-up prevents me from clicking the select field. Can the behaviour of the pop-up with the filed info be changed to make it disappear when user clicks somewhere? (see attachment for example how it prevents me from accessing the "All" field. BTW, "All" is still an odd name for this field)

FYI; If there is more than one user request, the pop-up with detail info only appear on the first request.

See attachment for an example.
