Description
I managed to publish a product yet when accessing it I see the attached error.
Dunno whether this is related with #8042

History

#1 - Apr 08, 2017 12:50 PM - Costantino Perciante

I've just tried now and the url is correctly resolved (i.e. from http://data.d4science.org/ctlg/EcoEvo/just\_for\_test to https://services.d4science.org/group/ecoevo/datasets?path=/dataset/just\_for\_test) .. Still empty catalogue's frame due to #8042

#2 - Apr 10, 2017 09:51 AM - Francesco Mangiacrapa

- Status changed from New to Closed
- % Done changed from 0 to 100

I added the configuration missing

<Scope>d4science.research-infrastructures.eu/D4Research/EcoEvo</Scope>
<URL>https://services.d4science.org/group/ecoevo/datasets</URL>

in the Generic Resource needed to the Catalogue Resolver. I confirm that the test URL http://data.d4science.org/ctlg/EcoEvo/just\_for\_test is correctly resolved as https://services.d4science.org/group/ecoevo/datasets?path=/dataset/just\_for\_test and the problem remains the issue #8042

I'm going to close this incident
